

NAMIBIA BOTSWANA

Try to imagine Africa...

And that's exactly what Namibia and Botswana are. One of the sparsest areas in the world when it comes to population density will offer you a liberating feeling of complete solitude rarely experienced anywhere else in the world. The sunrise against the red dunes of Sossusvlei is unforgettable, just like the dramatic and surprising landscape of the Namibian deserts.

You will probably be a bit surprised by the huge sea lion colonies on the deserted Skeleton Coast, whereas your expectations will become reality with the elephants and lions in Etosha. The durability of our expedition cars is tested in the inaccessible Khaudum National Park, where we may encounter one of the last authentic San.

Like the African fauna, you will appreciate the life-giving Okavango River, where you can attempt to catch a tigerfish. Our African journey ends as it should – with the elephants in Chobe, a park with the greatest concentration of these majestic animals and the breath-taking Victoria Falls.

PROS AND CONS

- + few tourists in a huge area, eco-friendly lodges
- + an enormous concentration of large mammals, especially near watering holes in Etosha
- + diverse landscape and scenery — deserts, rock formations, salt plains, grassy savannah and wetlands of the Okavango Delta
- + sparse inhabitation and extremely remote, virgin areas
- + political stability and safety
- an expensive destination with relatively expensive premium services and a small selection of different accommodation and service price points
- desert areas with almost no animals
- great distances

The trip can be adjusted as per individual request. Do not hesitate to contact us. For example, we can add a hunt in Limpopo, Khama Rhino or Mapungubwe.
